RESPONSE TO OFFICE ACTION

Applicant would like to thank the Examiner for taking the time to conduct an interview with Applicant's undersigned representative on October 4, 2005. The interview was cooperative, helpful, and productive. Applicant hopes the interview demonstration of one embodiment of the claimed invention adequately showed the use of different types to process information objects of different types differently. For example, a product object is associated with actions that include finding a store likely to carry the product near another place, whereas a place object is associated with other actions such as getting driving directions to or from the place, finding businesses or other places near the place, placing a call to a telephone number of the place, etc. The recognition of specific types of information stored on behalf of the user allows packaging of valuable, type-specific services (such as driving directions and direct dialing, for example) with such information.

In response to the Office Action mailed June 2, 2005, please amend the above-identified case as follows:

- Amend the Specification as shown below beginning on the following page.
- Amend the claims as shown beginning on page 4 of this paper.
